Deadly
Liquor to Invoke
Death
Penalty

ACCORDING to an Associated Press dispatch from Chicago, carried in Wednesday's issue of the Glendale Press, five mid-western state legislatures have either passed, or are now considering bills, to punish sellers or givers of intoxicants that cause death.

The penalties proposed are those imposed for murder or manslaughter.

It is about time for the entire United States to sit up and take notice of the bootlegger. Even in our own state he has been permitted to manufacture and sell his wares without much opposition.

ONE of the largest stills found in California was raided lately near Roscoe. We have photos of the outfit, which was complete in all details, even to that of employing a chemist.

Who is to blame for the condition now existing in this country? Not alone those who manufacture or peddle bootleg liquor, but those citizens who patronize these bootleggers.

DO you who drink this bootleg liquor recognize the fact that when you do you are subscribing to an act of treason? This is a grave charge, but those who drink are drinking to the toast, "Down with the Constitution," for a violation of the eighteenth amendment is just this and nothing less.

Upon the thoughtless, but fundamentally loyal citizens we would impress the gravity of encouraging this treason throughout the land by so much as a smile of approval at a stage jest, the acceptance of a drink of alcohol in any form, under any guise.

AT the present time a bill has been introduced in the legislature of Arizona, making it unlawful to use alcoholic beverages in the films, claiming it has a tendency to corrupt the morals of the youth.

The bootlegger will exist just as long as the earnest people of the country are thoughtless of the danger to the Constitution, and no longer.

SHRINERS APPROVE PLANS FOR BIG MASONIC TEMPLE

Report on Possible Permanent Home Is Approved at Smoker

A smoker of the Shrine Club over which D. Ripley Jackson presided, was held in the Pearl Keller hall Wednesday evening, and at the business session which preceded the program the report of W. E. Evans on possible permanent quarters for the club was submitted and received with much enthusiasm. It set forth the movement for a new Masonic Temple large enough to accommodate all the Masonic bodies and their affiliates in Glendale and announced the meeting to be held by representatives of the various bodies at the office of Fred Deal March 9 at 7:30.

Following the business session a program was given which included piano solos by Mrs. O. E. Christ, and numbers by Miss Ruhr, contralto, the Swiss opera singer.

A trio of Los Angeles artists furnished the balance of the entertainment, Miss Irene Jones and Miss Virden contributing piano, songs, duets and comedy songs, and Mr. Lewis of the Orpheum circuit giving entertaining skits. They were accompanied by Mike Kauffman, pianist of the Shrine Club Orchestra.

Second Extension of
Time to Answer

IS SET FOR MONDAY

Meanwhile Council Is Still
Restrained From Park
Purchase Payments

Hearing on the temporary injunction restraining the Glendale councilmen from paying city funds for the Glendale-Verdugo park or the airport tract, was continued this morning before Judge Arthur Keatch in Part 1 of the Superior court, on application of City Attorney Shaw for a second extension of time to show cause why the restraining order should not be made permanent.

The hearing was set for Monday morning. It will be argued at that time, unless more time is applied for.

The temporary restraining order was issued by Judge Crail, on a showing and allegations by George A. Montgomery, subdivider of Keeneth road, that city funds were being illegally applied to the purchase of the two tracts.

Will Plant Trees

Miss Ida Meyer, second vice regent, had charge of the meeting of the General Richard Gridley Chapter of the D. A. R., which was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. S. Leppelman, 387 West Milford street. The chapter voted to give the Tuesday Afternoon Club a silk program flag 4 1/2 by 5 1/2 feet, or army size; also to finance the planting of a tree upon the Tuesday Afternoon Club campus in conformity with the tree-planting campaign of D. A. R. chapters.

The speaker of the day was Miss Louise Graf, principal of the Albion Street School of Los Angeles, where a great Americanization work has been fostered by the D. A. R. chapters of Los Angeles and Glendale.

Miss Graf gave a fine talk upon Americanization and upon the settlement work carried on by the school which has to aid in the solving of the domestic problems in the lives of its pupils as well as their school life, helping when there is a death, or intervening when there is family trouble.

A large day nursery is maintained in charge of two nurses and here babies can be left for the day by mothers who work or wish to attend the mothers' classes provided at the school.

There was a large attendance and at the close of the program refreshments were served by Mrs. Leppelman.

REALTORS SWARM INTO CITY PARK FOR GET TOGETHER BARBECUE

Verdugo Hills Boards Represented by Full Delegation; New Board Is Born in the Crescenta-Canada-Montrose Districts

Yesterday was realtors' day at the Glendale-Verdugo park.

The Glendale Realty board was host.

The Tujunga Realty board and the realty men of La Crescenta, La Canada, and Montrose were guests.

More than eighty realty men were present.

Realistically speaking, the "boys and girls" had a mighty good time. Barbecueally speaking, the outing was a complete success, and oratorically speaking, there was something done every minute.

In other words, "a good time was had by all."

The direct result of the meeting was the forming of the Crescenta-Canada-Montrose Realty board, this being composed of a number of the realty men of these various communities. The organization work was done by Glenn D. Williams, secretary of the California State Real Estate association, assisted by C. D. Thom, president of the Glendale Realty board, and Dr. E. T. Theobald, president of the Tujunga Realty board.

At V. Hartman, the man who put Tujunga on the map, was one of the principal speakers of the day.

"I am a great believer in organization," said Mr. Hartman, "and these realty boards are entirely to my liking. I believe in them. It is the finest thing in the world for the realty men to gather once a week and to talk over their problems. By so doing they are rendering a service to themselves and also to their clients."

"Not one of us can estimate the good that is done by meetings of this character."

"I believe that the realty organization should plan to co-operate with the other organizations of the community, and all should play a part for bigger and better things."

"There are a lot of big things being done these days. Dozens and dozens of large tracts are being opened—one of the biggest things to be started recently here being the subdividing of the extensive and truly wonderful Ross and Thom estates. This is the first step in the opening of the wonderful Verdugo hills for homesites. This and all the other work that is being done is of interest to us all. Every man who moves into any section of these valleys helps to enhance the value of the property in the other sections."

"Some day Glendale is going to extend up into the valley to the north. We could not wish for a better mayor than Spencer Robinson. He would be good enough for us. This whole section should be one city—it was meant for a single community."

"As I look over the years just past I am learning what is causing this section to grow. It is the spirit of boost that is seen on every hand. This spirit of enthusiasm—of optimism—and of progress, is not unfounded. There is every reason that it should exist. This is truly a wonderful country and the people of the country are beginning to realize that fact."

"The realty men of Montrose, La Canada, La Crescenta and Tujunga are boosters, too. They are

Glendale Council Urges

PLAN BOWL TOURNEY

To Enter Team in National Contest of Big Organization

At the meeting of the Glendale Council of the Knights of Columbus, held Wednesday night at the local clubhouse, the members went on record as unanimously approving the school bond issue and to urge the members of the council and their friends to go to the polls on election day and vote the funds necessary for the improvements and additions to the schools.

In the absence of Grand Knight Harry Girard the meeting was in charge of Deputy Grand Knight Michael Gannon.

A committee composed of Fred Heusman, Henry M. Doll, Sr., and H. V. Henry, was appointed to confer with the other councils in Southern California on the organization of a Knights of Columbus bowling league and to put on a tournament to last about four months. The winners of the tournament would enter the national tournament to be held by the Knights of Columbus later in the season.

On last Thursday the Glendale K. C. bowling team defeated the Hollywood council by about 300 pins. The second team went to Los Angeles Saturday and defeated the Los Angeles council, so the Glendale Knights feel very much encouraged.

GLENDAL IS TO GREET ODD FELLOWS

City Council Plans for
104th Year Celebration Here

The Odd Fellows lodges of Southern California will hold their 104th year celebration in Glendale as predicted exclusively in the Glendale Daily Press, some time during the month of April, according to a notice received by City Manager Reeves last night. It is expected there will be several thousand Odd Fellows in Glendale on that occasion and the affair will result in a great deal of advertising for this city.

The local Odd Fellows and the city council are going to show the visitors a royal time, if proposed plans for entertainment do not miscarry. There will be a band, a jazz orchestra for the dancing in the pavilion, pink lemonade and many other features that will make the stay of the "odd ones" in Glendale extremely enjoyable.

CHIEF FRASER IS SPEAKER BEFORE EXCHANGE CLUB

Wednesday noon, for the first time, members of the Exchange club gathered at the new meeting place, the Harriett Mae Tea room at Harvard and Maryland.

One of the guests of the day and the chief speaker was Col. John D. Fraser, chief of police of Glendale, who gave a talk on the traffic problems with which his department has to cope.

Some of his remarks about the present state of traffic laws were in the nature of a revelation. One of the conditions which make difficult for traffic officers is found at the corner of Glendale boulevard and S. P. right-of-way, where motorists coming north on Brand are required to turn to the right side of the road to the intersection of Gardena. It seems that in spite of signs of various kinds posted by the Auto Club of Southern California as well as by the police department, a number of motorists are disregarding the law and proceeding on the wrong side of the street, thus increasing the danger of accidents.

The matter of speed traps was taken up and discussed to the satisfaction of Exchange members. Col. Fraser stated that Glendale is more lenient with traffic law violators than any other municipality in Southern California. They are not arrested for lights being out on the front and rear of machines; in fact, every motor officer is equipped with a tool kit so that he can be of assistance to motorists who are having trouble in this regard.

The chief mentioned other violations of traffic laws with which the traffic officers permit to slip by without ticketing them.

A good many questions were asked of the chief of police regarding traffic matters, all of which were answered.

SECURITY BUILDING IS SOLD

Roberts & Echols Buy the Corner of Brand and Broadway

AMOUNT NOT GIVEN

Popular Druggists Will Expand to Include New Premises

The Security Trust and Savings bank building at the southeast corner of Brand and Broadway, was purchased at 11 o'clock this morning by Frank Echols and Fred H. Roberts, proprietors of the drug firm of Roberts & Echols, which has for the past ten years occupied the store at 102 East Broadway. The consideration paid is being withheld.

The purchase included a piece of land having 25 feet on Broadway and 100 feet on Brand, and the 3-story building that is located thereon. This building was constructed about ten years ago, at which time it was occupied by the First National bank of Glendale. This property was later purchased by the Security Trust and Savings bank.

Upon the removal of the Security Trust and Savings bank into its proposed building on the northeast corner of Brand and Broadway, which, it is estimated, will be in about one year from this time, the firm of Roberts & Echols will establish in the ground floor of the building just purchased, one of the finest drug stores in Southern California, according to a statement issued by Mr. Echols this morning. "We will then have," said Mr. Echols, "the best drug store on the best corner in the best city of the best interests in the world."

The interests in the banking company were handled by J. T. Cooper, who has charge of the real estate transactions of the Security Trust and Savings bank.

Just by way of showing the growth that the Roberts & Echols company has made since starting in business 10 years ago, Mr. Echols stated this morning that when the store opened it was handled by one man. Today it employs 7 registered pharmacists, in addition to a number of other employees.

This sale is one of the largest real estate transactions that have been made in Glendale in months. The property involved is without doubt one of the finest pieces of realty in Glendale.

TEACHERS TO BE SPECIAL GUESTS OF C. OF C.

Interesting Program Is Arranged for Friday
Evening

The teachers of the grammar and high schools of Glendale, as well as the school trustees and the officers of the Parent-Teacher associations of the city will be the special guests of the Glendale chamber of commerce on Friday evening, March 9 at 6 o'clock.

An interesting program is being arranged for this event by the teachers, and a buffet dinner will be served.

The following letter, signed by President Smith and Secretary Rhoades, concerning this event was received this morning by Capt. Thomas D. Watson, chairman of the high school board of trustees:

"The chamber of commerce is entertaining all the teachers of both the grammar and high schools on next Friday evening, March 9 at 6 o'clock buffet dinner, followed by a program."

"I am instructed by the committee to request you to communicate this to your board, and to extend to all a very cordial invitation to be present at this meeting. The trustees of the grammar schools will also be invited, as well as the officers of the Parent-Teacher associations."

"We have sent out letters to all the members of the chamber of commerce, asking that each member invite a school teacher as his guest. However, all the teachers are invited as guests of the chamber."

"Trusting that the entire board can be present, I am."

Pacific-Southwest Review

BY DR. H. SMITH, Vice-President and Manager

DR. H. SMITH

The modern business man has come to regard the Escrow method of handling transactions involving real or personal property as the "only way."

This has been brought about through the two very distinct advantages offered by the escrow department of the modern bank and which cannot be secured by other means.

Speed Important Factor

The second essential for the successful completion of a business transaction in escrow is time. The buyer and seller, of course, wish to see their deal closed with as little loss of time as possible consistent with safety. The escrow department is admirably equipped to accomplish this desired result. Its personnel is especially trained to handle this business in a time that is almost negligible as compared to that which an uninitiated person would require to do the same thing.

Ample Protection Afforded

The first essential is to provide the seller and buyer with the utmost protection. The escrow department, as a disinterested third party, acts only in accordance with definite written instructions that are placed in the hands of the clerk handling the transaction by the various parties concerned. In this way, all matters affecting the deal, that are apt to hinder its progress if not definitely settled, are methodically placed in writing, so that the transaction may move with the greatest haste and smoothness to a conclusion.

Once the necessary details are decided upon they will be carried out in full by the escrow department. The buyer and seller are relieved of all the bothersome details of the transaction. The escrow department assumes all responsibilities in connection with the payment of taxes, liens, judgments, mortgages and securing acquittances and releases for same, the apportionment of rents, interest or taxes between buyer and seller, the payment of fire insurance premiums, the payment of brokerage or commissions—all these are competently investigated and attended to by the disinterested third party. The department does this work for the seller and buyer impartially, and is directly responsible to each. The escrow department has not efficiently performed its duties until a matter is closed to the complete satisfaction of all parties interested.

Speed Important Factor

The second essential for the successful completion of a business transaction in escrow is time. The buyer and seller, of course, wish to see their deal closed with as little loss of time as possible consistent with safety. The escrow department is admirably equipped to accomplish this desired result. Its personnel is especially trained to handle this business in a time that is almost negligible as compared to that which an uninitiated person would require to do the same thing.

The "escrow way" is the quickest and most satisfactory way to transact business in connection with real and personal property. As evidence of this is the fact that the Escrow Department of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, during the past year handled thousands of individual escrows, representing property with an aggregate value ranging into the millions of dollars.

Business men who are not thoroughly acquainted with the facilities of the escrow department of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank are invited to come in and talk the matter over with the writer. Consultation is earnestly solicited where escrow matters are in contemplation.

JOHN L. CIRCLE GIVES DINNER TO SALESMEN

John L. Circle is a transplanted Missouri boy who has made good. Commencing a few years ago as a clerk in the Army and Navy department store of Los Angeles, he has forged steadily ahead and is now manager of the shoe department of that great concern. He is a Glendale booster from away back and has helped the town to grow. With a charming wife and three children, as well as a beautiful home in the fastest growing city in the world, he is indeed a happy man. One of Mr. Circle's methods as manager is to occasionally assemble his salesmen at a get-together dinner, at which business and pleasure are combined, the men talking over plans of work while supplying the wants of the inner man. One of these dinners will be given by Mr. Circle this evening at his home, 320 North Isabel, to 16 of his salesmen from the Main street store. There will be a St. Patrick's day setting to the table and other decorations. Those attending are Vaughn Bell, assistant manager, and Messrs. Dinley, Bartlett, Faubian, Fleisig, Lachman, Joop, Delprez, Olson, Ruble, Healy, Graham, Larson, Bell and Neusbaum, salesmen. Mr. Circle thinks these little affairs are effective in insuring co-operation among his salesmen and thus building up the business more and more, also giving his associates opportunity of observing what a wonderful city he lives in.

"SECRETS OF PARIS" OPENS TONIGHT AT THE GLENDALE

The Glendale theatre announces that "Secrets of Paris," the screen version of Eugene Sue's most famous novel, "The Mysteries of Paris," is due tonight and will be shown for two days.

Here is a photoplay that should whet the appetite of every motion picture fan, for the book has been read by thousands of persons during the past fifty years, and stands today as one of the most popular stories of love and romance. "Secrets of Paris" is a production of Charles C. Barry and William Bennett, two of the rising motion picture producers of the day. These two Americans stand for the very best to be had in the motion picture field, and above all else are for clean films at all times.

In order that each character be faithful to Sue's description, Mr. Bennett spent weeks in picking his cast, and when it was assembled claimed it to be the best he ever saw. The role of the Prince is taken by Lew Cody, one of the best known stars in the motion picture world, and one of the most popular men known to the screen. Montagu Love, the famous English actor, plays the part of the Schoolmaster, while the dainty and talented Gladys Hulette plays Mary-Bower. The exacting part of the Owl is portrayed by the beloved Rose Coghlan, one of the greatest actresses on the stage. Effie Shannon is seen in the part of Mme. Ferrand, while the beautiful Dolores Cassinelli is seen as Lola. "Buster" Collier plays Francois, and J. Barney Sherry is seen as the Hunchback, and the massive Walter James as the Stranger. "Secrets of Paris" should prove one of the finest productions that has ever been seen in this city.

GLENDALEANS TO VISIT NEW HOME OF VETERANS

House Warming of the Disabled Men's New Clubhouse in L. A.

George F. Newman, sergeant at arms and member of the board of directors of post No. 1, Disabled Veterans of the World War, was in Glendale this morning to invite all citizens to attend the first anniversary open house of the establishment of the club home of disabled veterans of the World War, located at 246 South Hill street, Los Angeles. It takes place Friday, all day, and in the evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, a program will be given at which W. G. McAdoo will make an address and skits will be put on by prominent actors and actresses.

It is an enterprise which the veterans themselves are financing, with such aid as comes to them voluntarily. The club house is a three-story building with a banquet and dancing hall which can be leased to outside parties for entertainments and thus furnish a revenue.

It provides a shelter for penniless soldiers who drift in from other parts of the country and a place where they can be helped onto their feet. No meals are served, but meal tickets are purchased by the club for the use of buddies who need them. There are lounge and card rooms, a billiard parlor and a small dormitory containing about 18 beds.

Claud Whitney, president of the club, is said to be doing a quite wonderful work for these disabled boys and Captain Harrison is the house manager.

Besides this clubhouse, the organization has a camp upon a ranch in the Sierra Madre mountains up from Pasadena, where buddies can rent a cottage for $1.50 a week and rest and recuperate. This camp is under the supervision of Vice President Doerr.

RESULTS OF HIGH SCHOOL WORK IN CASH

Increased Return Through Higher Grade of Product Is Shown

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

Critics of the modern school systems usually center their objections on the special departments which they characterize as superfluous and an unjustified expense. It is probable that they never stop to think of their value in actual dollars and cents to citizens who take advantage of the instruction, particularly in the night school.

Walter Gorman, head of the wood-working shop of Glendale high says he is not so much interested in securing student work for exhibition as he is in demonstrations of student progress and mastery of the principles he has tried to instill. No one is more appreciative of good, honest work than Mr. Gorman, and the student who has done it is apt to find it out.

The aim of the department is to lift workers from a low grade of work to a high one, and the greatest satisfactions that have come to Mr. Gorman have been the pupils he has helped in this way. He cited one instance of a young man who came to him as a cesspool digger at $3.50 per day who is now getting $8 per day for a good grade of carpenter work. A plaster mixer getting a maximum of $4 per day can now command $8. He states that the courses provided in the evening school are being taken advantage of by many artisans desirous of fitting themselves for better work, the wood-working classes alone having an enrollment of about 35, with an average attendance so high that he finds it hard to supervise so many.

Mrs. Dora Gibson, head of the music department of Glendale high, is another who has risen up to defend her department against the charge that it is superfluous and a waste of the taxpayers' money. She says the public realizes its vocational value or the money which its students have been able to earn because of their ability, in helping themselves through college. The vocational view of course takes no account of music as a social asset which will make the student welcomed in many circles otherwise denied to him.

As examples of Glendale graduates who have made vocational use of music, Mrs. Gibson named the following young people:

Miss Frances Payne, who is supervisor of violin and orchestral instruction in the San Bernardino public schools.

Julius Kranz, who is supervisor of orchestra work in the grammar and high schools of South Pasadena.

Cecil Crandall, violinist of a professional string trio, and also connected with the William Farnum Film company, where he is paid for Mary Pickford. He is said to have constant engagements and to be making a very good salary.

Marguerite Hauber, who was a student-teacher all the time she was studying in the University of Southern California. When she was graduated she was appointed to the regular teachers' staff in the piano department and has been very successful there.

Donella Warner, now living in Los Angeles, was a student here. She is one of the successful piano teachers of the angel city.

Veda Knapp and Frank Lanterman, who were graduated from Glendale high, are taking musical courses in the University of Southern California and making fine records. Frank is specializing on the pipe organ. Veda's preparation has been general, for the work of a supervisor in music in the public schools. Elsa Anderson is also studying the pipe organ in the same university.

Alberta Stoddard and Marjorie Yarrick are taking musical courses at Pomona College.

Elizabeth Mottern, who studied in New York last year and who now has a choir position, is completing a course in harmony and composition in the University of Southern California. She is said to be quite wonderful in pipe organ work.

Mrs. Gibson says that the records of the universities show that about 46 percent of the women students are supporting themselves in whole or in part by doing something on the outside, and that many of them are utilizing their musical ability.

MUTUAL BENEFIT CIRCLE MARKS BIRTHDAY

The seventh birthday anniversary of the founding of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle of Glendale was celebrated at the meeting of that organization Wednesday at the public library. Mrs. Charles H. Toll, founder of the Circle, was the guest of honor.

The meeting opened with a cordial address of welcome by Mrs. J. C. Danford, librarian. Mrs. Toll was greeted on behalf of the Circle by the president, Mrs. A. A. Barton. The former congratulated the club on its healthy growth from a charter membership of 25 to the present enrollment of 178. She also spoke on community service work, its aims and purposes "to unloose the feelings of the American people and to provide healthy recreation for leisure time."

She briefly defined community service as "democracy in leisure," including as it does every man, woman and child of every class and creed. A large basket of flowers was presented to Mrs. Toll from the Circle by Mrs. C. H. Crawford, who read an original poem expressing the thoughts conveyed by the blossoms. Mrs. A. A. Barton and Mrs. H. V. Henry also received flowers in appreciation of their work in the club.

Mrs. H. R. Archibald, district organizer of reading circle work in the first district, thanked the Circle for the help she always received from its membership. Roll call was answered with quotations by the entire membership. During the day community games and songs were conducted by Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mrs. Mae Rosenberg, Mrs. Perry and Mrs. C. M. Taylor. A letter of thanks and appreciation was sent to Mrs. Sheridan for the birthday cakes which she gave to the club.

Mrs. Mae Rosenberg announced the monthly party of the Glendale Community Service Recreation Leaders' club, to which everyone is invited, and which will be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the high school.

Among the guests of the club yesterday were Mrs. Florence Kurtz, a charter member who now lives in Los Angeles; Mrs. Kenneth Payne, Mrs. M. F. Smith, Mrs. J. W. Andree, Mrs. D. R. Jones, Mrs. T. E. Lickiss, Mrs. R. A. Phillips, Mrs. A. A. Pacheco, Mrs. Roberta T. Young and Mrs. Ed Bertram.

A Scarcity Impends in New Cotton Goods

In the springtime and in the summer—when trips to the laundry double up—cotton surely counts. All women should take inventory right now of what they haven't got in cotton—for themselves or the children—and set needles flying on the new fabrics this store has brought here for their use—outside and inside, on top or underneath. It will pay you to look ahead a bit—for there isn't any too much cotton in the country—especially at these prices. We advise early selection.

DISEASE IN ANTIQUITY

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

The facts of paleopathology—the name given to scientific study of disease signs in the remains of our early ancestors—hardly bear out the widespread belief that twentieth century people are peculiarly subject to maladies unknown, or almost unknown, in primitive times. Even diseases stigmatized as directly or indirectly the product of modern living habits of an unhygienic sort are found to have been direfully potent in the long ago.

Take arteriosclerosis, for example.

Popularly this is regarded as distinctly a disease of modernity, chiefly due to the stresses of modern living, excessive meat eating, excessive use of tobacco, etc. And no doubt these do contribute to the occurrence of arteriosclerosis today.

But—

Medical examination of Egyptian mummies shows that arteriosclerosis was common and severe in the land of the Pharaohs back to the earliest dynasties, when people certainly were not excessive meat eaters, addicted unduly to tobacco, or overtaxed by the stressful conditions that now exist.

As with arteriosclerosis so with another "modern" disease, the disease of chronic oral sepsis, with its varied manifestations or sequels in dental decay, dental abscesses, tonsillar disease, rheumatic heart disease, rheumatism of the joints, and so forth.

Rheumatism of the most crippling sort was rife among the Egyptians thousands of years before the Christian era. Dental disease seems to have been even more prevalent. Indeed, there has been obtained evidence that dental disease and its dread after-effects have a history far antedating the civilization of Egypt.

In a London museum there are a fossil skull and other bones found last year in Rhodesia, the remains of a prehistoric man attributed to the late pleistocene period. The teeth are badly decayed, there are indications of numerous dental abscesses, and the condition of a leg-bone suggests joint rheumatism, presumably the result of chronic oral sepsis.

This unhappy early Rhodesian, it would further appear, suffered from a mastoid abscess, thought by experts to have been the immediate cause of his death. In any case, he was a victim of disease conditions much in evidence at the present time, and by many believed to have been not at all in evidence in remote times.

Proof also has been obtained that pneumonia and smallpox were active in the lands of antiquity. Joint tuberculosis has been traced back 3000 years and rickets 5000 years.

So that, altogether, paleopathology has provided us with much interesting and unexpected information and not a little food for thought. In the words of one medical writer, commenting on its findings:

"It reveals that men in bygone times were commonly stiff and old by the time they had reached 50, and that the good old days were not so good from the sanitarian's standpoint. And we find that royalty was of very common clay, kings with extremely bad teeth and gums, queens bald of head, and even—we blush to say it—princesses with nits in their hair."

IMPROVE PUBLIC HEALTH

GENEVA, (United Press).—Thanks to the donation to the League of Nations by the Rockefeller Foundation of $60,000 a year for a period of three years, public health officers of twenty different countries will this year be given a three months course of study in various European countries, for the purpose of perfecting public health methods. The League has applications now from twenty different countries for the participation of its health officials in the 1923 courses.

Little Willie was naughty at dinner, and daddy suggested that a good spanking would fill a long-felt want.

"But I don't like to smack him on a full stomach," objected Willie's mother.

"Can't you turn him over?" suggested father.

LORD'S PRAYER IN SMALL SPACE

Probably the smallest piece of engraving on glass in the world was recently measured, by the Bureau of Standards. The engraving is that of the Lord's Prayer, a fifty-seven-word version, engraved on glass in a space of .001x.002 of an inch. The writing can be seen only under a high-power microscope, it being necessary to magnify 900 to 1,000 times.

An American soldier, in uniform, was attending a theatre in London while on a leave of absence, and at the ticket office purchased a rear seat for the performance. Disregarding this fact, he went, pushing along toward the higher priced seats.

"Hey, there," shouted the manager, "Where are you going?"

"Where am I going?" repeated the Yankee, scornfully, "Why, where a good soldier ought to go—to the front, of course."

MUSSOLINI SAYS HE IS A REAL DAREDEVIL

Head of the Fascisti
Needs Muskets to Keep Rascals Out

ROME, Mar. 8.—(A. P.)—"The Fascisti government needs 200,000 muskets to keep all the rascals in their places," said Premier Mussolini to a delegation of the Italian Arditi, or "Daredevils," as they are sometimes called, in a recent address.

"I am counting on all the ex-service men, and therefore, on the Arditi, who have been our best fighters," continued the Premier. "I am sure almost all of you will join the voluntary militia. We need the regular army to be prepared for the defense of the nation, for this is its purpose; we need a police force in order to protect ourselves against lawbreakers. The Fascisti government has need of 200,000 muskets to keep all the rascals in their places."

"I hope, therefore," continued the Fascisti chief, "to see you in the front rank of the Fascisti legions, which are a magnificent reserve of courage, of power and of faith, and on which not only the government, but the whole nation can surely count. I thank you, and beg you to consider me, as head of the government, a daredevil who does not stop before any obstacle, and he overcomes all obstacles if it be necessary and required by the supreme interests of the nation."

UNITED STATES COMPARED

With

THE AVERAGE OF POWERS

The United States war department has compiled figures on armaments and navies.

The expenditure for armed forces per capita of the United States is $6.35, or thirty-five cents more than that of the average of powers.

However, United States' expenditure in per cent of national wealth is only 22, while that of the average of powers is 34, the United States being only 26 per cent of the average.

The following is interesting: The number of soldiers per million population in the United States is 2,912; for the average of powers this corresponding figure is 29,564, the United States being only 10 per cent of the average.

The United States has ninety-two soldiers per thousand square miles of area; while the corresponding figure for the average of powers is 2349.

Again, the United States has 990 soldiers per billion dollars of national wealth, the corresponding figure for the average of powers being 46,236.

BUSINESS WOMEN MEET ON MONDAY

At a meeting of the cabinet of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club, held in the office of the president, Dr. Laura Brown, Tuesday evening, reports from officers and committee chairmen were received, the chairman of membership, Mrs. Mary Baxter, reporting eight applicants for membership, as follows: Mrs. Carmen G. Evans, Mrs. A. J. Brower, Miss Lilla E. Litch, Mrs. E. McConnell, Mrs. Roberta Young, Miss Lata Claypool, Mrs. R. M. Sebastian, Miss Cardium Umstead.

Mrs. Jennie Phillips having tendered her resignation as chairman of ways and means committee on account of increased duties in other organizations with which she is connected, Mrs. Loretta Williams was elected to the position.

There was discussion of ways and means of raising money for the club and the suggestion of a dollar day, each member to earn a big round silver disk and be prepared to tell how it was obtained. The matter will be presented at the regular business session of the full club, which will be held next Monday evening at the clubhouse, 128 South Maryland, instead of Tuesday evening, the usual night. The change is made in compliment to the Tuesday Afternoon club, which is having its first real "at home" Tuesday evening to members and their escorts in its new clubhouse at Lexington and North Central.

GERMANS SPEND MARKS LIBERALLY

Discover they are Worthless when Saved for
Rainy Day

[By Associated Press]

HAMBURG, Mar. 8.—Germans have slowly learned that it is unwise to save marks while they are falling so rapidly in value. Even servants earning very small wages have adopted the plan of converting their money immediately into something which has real value. Such persons seldom have enough to buy foreign money, so they acquire articles which will always be in demand. Furthermore, they usually have these purchases made in some small town, where prices are lower than in the great centers which know more about international exchange operations.

The cook in one American family in Hamburg recently told her mistress she was investing her earnings in furniture, which she had ordered a cabinet-maker in her native village to manufacture. She had bought the wood at a bargain, and the man was doing the work very cheaply in his spare time.

While the cook was not betrothed, and did not know that she would marry, she explained to her mistress that her chances will be much brighter when it became known that she could furnish a home attractively.

The session was a very enthusiastic one and the various members took turns at leading the singing.

Truths in Epigram

To man full of questions give no answer at all.—Plato.

That every man should regulate his actions by his own conscience is one of the first precepts of moral prudence.—Samuel Johnson.

Man never fastened one end of a chain around the neck of his brother, that God's own hand did not fasten the other end round the neck of the oppressor.—Lamarine.

THE RED INFLUENCE

Considering the tragic failure of the soviet regime, it is amazing that an influence should emanate from its headquarters, and tend to win even passive toleration for the bolsheviks. Mary Roberts Rinehart warns women not to be deceived by the subtle propaganda that finds its way into their clubs. Her words are emphasized by Gertrude Atherton, another writer of admitted mental force.

The announcement is made that the soviet regime is willing to accept the creed of the Methodist church. The natural tendency is to believe this to be but another bid for consideration that is wholly undeserved. If such a proffer has been made, which in all probability, it has not, it could have been advanced in no other spirit than that of a mocking insincerity.

Just at this time there comes, through a reliable news agency, the information that the plan to exterminate all churches, and all forms of religion, is more active among the reds of Russia than ever before. There is a campaign there against Sunday as a day of rest. The only reason for such course is that the observance of Sunday for this purpose, has a religious suggestiveness. The plan does not conform to the bolshevist desire to flout all things regarded by the church as sacred. Nor does it conform with the suppositious desire to import and adopt the principles of any sect. The reds are atheists. It is useless for them to dissemble. Were they to believe in God they could not be the type of reds they are.

There was a coarse and revolting anti-religious program at Christmas, and another fully as significant for Easter. Meanwhile church property is being confiscated and church officials persecuted. Russia proposes to be a nation without God, and for this alone could not but be doomed to failure. Peoples before the present era, groups beginning to be stirred by racial instincts, and then by spiritual yearnings, learned to believe in a supreme power, and to worship it. Thus were they struggling upwards towards civilization. The part of civilization that rejects God, has started on the backwards journey.

That communism as sought to be practiced in Russia is incompatible with the principles of religion, manifestly is true. The leaders perceive this. Hence they would reject the religion and save the communism, and hence they will go down. Yet this decadent and dying regime is able to still send forth poisonous preachments and have these repeated or at least listened to by Americans. It is a curious reflection on intelligence.

JOSEPH CANNON RETIRES

It must be that as he left the house for the last time, at least as a member, a flood of poignant memories swept the mind of Joseph Cannon, who for almost all the time since 1872 had been a representative from Illinois. He had grown old in the service. Indeed, public service had been most of his life. The country thinks of him only in relation to his congressional activities. Doubtless the old man was deeply touched by the evidences of his popularity as with feeble step than had been his wont until recently, he marched away from his colleagues, and from amidst the applause of crowded galleries. The scene was unique.

Cannon retired voluntarily. His constituents were ready to send him back, and he might have remained to the end. He felt that a younger man should take up the duties for which he no longer believed he had strength.

He had been a member during trying years. He was elected while there were issues of the Civil war still to be settled. He had been a congressman as ten different Presidents had occupied the White House. He had been a leader among mighty men. His associates at times had included Blaine, Randall, Stephens, Reed, Carlisle, Garfield, McKinley—a few among the long and notable list of American statesmen of yesterday; familiar names now only to the elder citizen. But doubtless Cannon recalled them all in vivid procession.

When Cannon first entered congress, Gillette, the present speaker, was just old enough to vote. The same was true of the late Champ Clarke. The late James Mann was a lad of sixteen. Longworth was a toddler of three years.

Cannon has been a bitter partisan, a fighting politician. As speaker he wielded great power and made enemies. But at the last everybody wishes happiness for him, and years of quiet peace after a stormy career.

ALTAGENA LIGHTS UP

Altadena has banished darkness. At night it gleams. No longer does the warfarer have to guess which way to turn. He is able to see now. The little community has put in a system of illumination of which it has a right to be proud, and being quite human, is proud.

Perhaps the reform is due in part to the notorious "boulevard bandit" of memory wholly unblended. At any rate the activity of this still unknown and scurvy knave called attention to the circumstance that there are those who "love darkness because their deeds are evil." It also came to mind that people who did not love evil, could wander in the darkness with the other type only at considerable peril. But whatever the reason, the good work has been done, and Altadena basks in a nightly flood of light. Much is added to the beauty of the locality by the change, and much to the comfort of resident and visitor. The dwellers in this desirable spot that looks like a city, but is not, although it has city advantages, were so pleased with the improvement that they planned to celebrate, with brass bands and speeches and such things. They invited the world to come, and a surprisingly large part of the world hopped into the family lizzie, and accepted.

People who are able to procure homes in such a place as Altadena are fortunate. There are other such places available. They are close to the city, but still have all the unmarred beauty of the country. Naturally the condition cannot last indefinitely. By the law of growth, as visibly operative, the time is not far distant when the Altadensians of the region will be absorbed by the urban expansion. Then those who still pine for the country will have to move. And even so, unless they move far, the expansion will overtake them.

Dr. Otis Caldwell, a school principal of New York city, advocates the free use of newspapers in the classroom. In doing this he complimented the papers upon their accuracy. He had fortified his position by extensive research. Such a view of daily papers ought to inspire good journalism to even a higher level, and as for bad journalism, make it ashamed and determined to reform.

There is no occasion for excitement over the purported discovery of two leper cases in San Quentin. The disease is not imparted by proximity. It does not fill the air with germs. In countries where it prevails habitually, it is among certain classes only, due to the diet and general methods of living.

VICTOR HUGO

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There he stands, Messieurs the Discontented, the great model for all time of the literature of protest! Why don't you look at him? Follow, imitate him!

I have just read again "The Man Who Laughs," and a great shudder has gone down my soul. And when years ago I read "Les Miserables" it seemed I grew ten years that week. It was a whole course in college.

I have just been reading recently some of the modern attempts to give voice to the submerged.

Of such books there will always be a plenty, if for no other reason than because envy springs eternal in the human breast and no passion is more quick and vocal.

And dangerously easy. Probably the earlier literary efforts of every writing person were vents to bitterness.

Just as the first language of a human being on emerging from the matrix and taking the form of an individual is a cry, so whining is the language of immaturity.

To be cheerful implies a certain sophistication. Only graduates from the school of experience can grin and bear it.

Every young playwright begins on tragedies, every cub reporter prefers murders, and every singer in the lists of literature must, like the nightingale, bruise his breast against a thorn.

But there is this difference between the master and the apprentice. The master writes of grief nobly, the apprentice meanly.

In the one sorrow, oppression, injustice has touched a chord divine that not only pierces you with its sadness but smites you with its beauty.

In the other we get but the pulling petulance of the infant.

No one wrote more than Victor Hugo of sordid things, of sin and ghastliness, of the muck of poverty and the hideousness of cruelty; but he made it all beautiful, and as he writes the convict Jean Valjean looms with a vastness as of a Christ, and the frightful deformity of the Man who Laughs becomes majestic as the laughter of hell.

Gorkis, Dreisers, Sinclairs, Hamans, all ye bitter ones, learn this: no art has any right to exist except it be beautiful.

When the true artist touches the meanest object he gives it a kind of awfulness. Even the repulsive, in the hands of genius, becomes admirable.

You may write of murder and the ultimate perversions, you may portray human monsters and vermin, you may tell of dung heaps and the stench of sewers, if you do it all as Hugo did it and of tinge your stark realism with the wonder of art.

But evil qua evil has no charm. Vice and sin and poverty, without the transforming beauty of the spirit, have no message.

If you must be dull, write Sunday school books and prate of virtue, but let no man write of such sacred themes as poverty and injustice and humanity but such a one as Hugo.

The book of Job is all about ugliness, but it is beautiful. The Four Gospels treat of the lower classes and working folk, and their central figure is a carpenter's son, and a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, and the story's climax is tragic, but they that wrote these books somehow put a light in them that causes them to shine like the moon forever over the harsh reality of human agony and makes our Mojave Deserts and Death Valleys of human misery shimmer like the sea.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

WHEN TO USE A PERIOD

At the end of a sentence that is not a question or an exclamation; as, The train arrived on time. Bring me my book.

Following a word or a group of words that is not a question or an exclamation and is a complete thought; as, Are you ready? Go. Where shall we meet? At the usual place. Now is the time. Strike.

Following an abbreviation; as, Mr. Mrs. Dr. St. Md. Mt.

Inside the last quotation mark of a quotation that is not a question or an exclamation; as, He looked my way and said, "Do as you please."

Following a single quotation mark and inside the final double quotation mark when a quotation is included by another quotation and ends a sentence; as, He replied, "The man looked at me and said quietly, 'I'll do as you say.'"

Unnecessary following a quotation mark preceded by a "or an " or " as, His next remark was "When will you come?" He jumped forward and cried, "Look out!"

Unnecessary after a single quotation mark that is followed by a double quotation mark, when a " or an " is placed inside the single quotation mark; as, He replied, "My next question was 'Will you help us?'" His story continued as follows: "Suddenly he wheeled about and cried, 'Look!'"

Unnecessary at the end of a title; as Frank's Diaries.

Unnecessary at the end of an address, of the addressee or of the writer; as, Mr. Frank H. Styles 15 Main Street Houston, Texas

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

There is a field of poppies over yonder. Beautiful poppies, gorgeous in coloring and with velvet petals flaming in the sunlight. But they are over yonder.

Because poppies do not grow here by the desk.

Here by the desk are typewriting machines and rugs and chairs and pictures and blotters and letter openers and filing cases and all that.

But no poppies. Because poppies belong over yonder, in the field.

So if I want poppies and the companionship of poppies growing in the field I must not wait for the poppies to come to the desk.

I must go to the poppies. Just as Mahomet had to go to the mountain. For the mountain could not come to Mahomet.

Not even Mahomet could move a mountain.

And there are song birds in the trees out yonder.

None here at the desk.

Because you do not find song birds at desks. So if I want the companionship of birds and to hear their songs in the open I have to go over yonder.

Where the song birds are.

Friendships are beautiful things. And delightful to have.

Songs of the Poets

The Dark Noon—By Edith D. Osborne in McClure's

Life, like a clock, has stopped at noon.

But I'm too stunned by silence yet To count the hours 'twixt sun and moon.

Or pray at all. . . Time I forget. . .

With spring's young things and fire divine The world goes on its ordered way!

The only useless heart is mine.

That saw Love die but yesterday.

I wish that I had bread to bake.

White floors to scrub, and ale to brew:

The busy heart forgets to break. . .

But mine has nothing left to do.

SOCIAL PATRIOTISM

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

That's a new term! but it's a much needed virtue at this stage of human history.

The term, social patriotism, is not mine. It was spontaneously coined by brilliant and worthy men of my acquaintance in the course of a conversation on the subject of broken homes.

He and I had read a good many books tending to prove that the disintegration of the home as we have heretofore understood it is inevitable.

Many of these books claimed that the happiness of the outsider who infected discord between married partners as having a higher claim than the happiness of wife and children or husband and children.

The man demurred but, being honest, he made this assertion: "I do not think it can be denied, that certain women have an almost hypnotic sex attraction over men and that a few men have the same power over women. The misfortune comes because we do not recognize that an outside attraction may strike any one after the marriage knot is tied. The weak succumb; the strong get out of the way and the feeling dies."

"People who are true to their marriage vows are no more cold than those who are false. They are simply stronger and devoted to higher ideals."

"What we need just now is not so much better divorce and marriage laws, though I grant the necessity for them also. We need a loyalty to country similar to the loyalty to country that we call patriotism."

"We despise a traitor to his country. We tolerate a traitor to his home and his wife. If we tolerated treason to country we should undoubtedly increase it by leaps and bounds, just as we are increasing the home-breaking industry by our multitudinous toleration of extra matrimonial love affairs."

"Love does not last forever. A man who tires of a dozen, for he has never built stability into his emotions."

"Understand, by love I mean the romantic flare that sends men into temporary moon madness. That burns out in every case, but it there is enough between two people to draw them into marriage the chances are that with social patriotism as a working basis the two may develop a feeling much deeper and more abiding than romantic love."

It seems to be the ambition of the senate to kill the International court plan, and make somebody else seem to be responsible.

It appears that the senate of Wisconsin, not having been hypnotized by socialism, declines to abolish the national guard. The lower house still raves ineffectively.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Continuing from yesterday the subject of criminal court procedure: At the debate mentioned, newspapers were blamed for the delay and impotency of courts in respect of convicting the guilty. Newspapers are ready to admit regretfully that a share of the responsibility does rest upon certain members of their calling.

The matter of the criminal lawyer was touched upon lightly. He is the fellow to be excoriated. He it is who willingly shields the most desperate and despicable offenders, provided there is a fee plainly in sight. For a consideration, he is ready to become accessory after the fact, to any evil deed. Knowing an assassin to be guilty, he will try to exclude the evidence tending to establish the truth. He will drill witnesses in perjury, and pay them for swearing to a lie. He will corrupt a juror if no other method is available to defeat justice. He will speak in tender tremulo, and with tears in his eyes, of the nobility of a client he knows ought to be hanged. It is not uncommon for him to place the victim of his client on trial, and with false words, traduce the dead.

This does not mean that all criminal lawyers are criminals. Some who have to bear the title are honest and honorable. It means only the sort of lawyer whose reputation is such that an accused person seen seeking him as counsel, by that very act not only proclaims himself guilty, but flaunts defiance in the face of courts and public. There are many such lawyers. They are a disgrace to the profession. They aid in promoting disrespect for the law, and disrespect for the law is the chief explanation of the reign of crime.

A cablegram says that forty-two prominent soviet officials have been shot for stealing and bribe-taking. An inclination to believe the story arises from the fact that it is printed in a string of papers very friendly to the bolsheviks, and admiring Lenin with an ardor suggestive of worship.

There had been small reason for supposing that stealing in Russia was regarded as a crime. Probably it is so regarded only when a good bolshevist is the victim, losing what he had stolen himself.

Bribe-taking could not be placed at exactly the same level, but does not prevail among gentlemen. The bolshevist official guilty of so improper a method of gain, should, as a matter of safety, be sure that there was no official higher up. Such a superior might be offended at the loss of opportunity, so snatched by a greedy subordinate.

Prediction is made that women of the future will have beards. Such things are said only when there is a short space at the bottom of the column to be filled, and nothing in sight to fill it.

In Delaware, a colored man received fifteen lashes and a sentence to a year's imprisonment for the theft of a bucket of coal, worth 75 cents. The coal was taken from a train of the fuel. There was no coal at the negro's house, and no way of getting any.

There need be no hesitation in saying that the penalty in this instance was not only unduly, but indecently severe. In a New York town, chilled to the bone citizens stole the content of a whole train of coal rather than freeze. Nobody blamed them. In fact, the tendency was general to tell them they had done well.

If facts are desired concerning the fixing of oil prices, it is unfortunate that investigation should have been in the hands of a committee dominated by La Follette.

The declaration that the Standard does fix prices, would not have been surprising coming from a source in which the public had the utmost confidence. For so far as the public is concerned, there never has been any doubt.

Prices of many other staples are fixed arbitrarily. Everybody knows it, and there is no occasion to pretend to be startled as by a revelation, when the truth happens to be told about it.

There is the justly celebrated law of supply and demand, of course. When it is in the power of an individual or group to regulate the supply, the law merely becomes the agency for promotion of dividends.

The vice president of the United States receives a salary of $12,000. He could not live in Washington on this and fly high socially. Probably the sum is equal to any income to which he had been accustomed, and in the absence of a desire to fly high, would seem ample.

Members of congress get only $7500. Many a member, in drawing this stipend, receives the greatest emolument he ever has had the happiness to command. But it is not deemed essential that congressmen be society bugs at all.

A generous woman desires to turn over a $300,000 mansion for the use of the vice president. The upkeep would be about $15,000. The senate, which has a sort of spotted fever of economy, hesitates at the cost.

Before elected to his present position, Mr. Coolidge is said to have been paying $35 a month rent. He had no pining for the magnificent then. Perhaps he hasn't yet.

In the effort to rid a restaurant of roaches, a Chicago fumigator caused the deaths of six persons sleeping over the infested place. It seems remarkable that a man apparently knowing so little concerning the deadly quality of a poison gas should have been permitted to handle the stuff.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN DILGRIM

This world is still able to give the discerning a titter, in spite of all the horror that clutters up the first pages. Thus one discovers that a well-meaning artist and a lot of well-meaning clubwomen—guilty; just what is a clubwoman?—have solemnly:

"Resolved, That bobbed hair is horrid."

Maybe they are right. Who knows? It seems to be more or less a matter of choice. If I like bobbed hair on Ethel and Ethel likes it on Ethel, and Ethel and the above signed are the two persons chiefly concerned, what possible difference will it make to us if the Royal Academy, plus the Club Woman's Geschutzschaft, resolve that to bob it is wrong?

The reply is that it will make no difference whatever. The probabilities are that the original resolution was set afloat to get a little publicity for the resolvers. The discerning will note that this scheme has been tapped and sunk in these paragraphs. Their names make no difference whatever. The great truth is—as it seems to me—that unless they had publicity in mind they were suffering from jangling in the belfry when they adopted the resolution.

Fashion is fashion. That's all. Not subject to reason, control, or argument. When the girls decided to roll 'em they did, although mothers tossed in impotent anguish. When they desired to cut the skirts short they did, on my word of honor, and when they desired them long they let out the tucks. At such moments the girl who ran counter to the current of fashion was just four city blocks behind the parade and knew it. Perhaps these fashions were foolish. Yet we know very well that when skirts were curling over the kneecaps we turned to grin at the lady who dragged her rear most hem.

"There's a sensible woman, all right," we said to each other. "Ha, ha. Looks like thunder, don't she?"

It seems to me that we might as well take fashion as it comes, without discussing its relative idiocies. We might as well, I say. What else can we do about it?

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

LAWMAKERS ARE WATCHED BY WOMEN

LINCOLN, Neb., Mar. 8.—(United Press).—Although members of the Nebraska state legislature have been allowed considerable latitude, they have been keenly alert to the fact that the women of the state are extremely particular as to the grist for the legislative hopper. These women have kept constant vigil over the contents of the sluice boxes, and are now exerting all the power of their organizations toward securing the passage of certain measures.

The legislative program adopted by the women of Nebraska as represented by the three largest civic organizations of women, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the League of Women Voters, and the Women's Christian Temperance Union, contain some of the most important bills under consideration in the state's legislature. Perhaps the most far-reaching bill is one which requires that every voter must be able to read the constitution of the United States. A sister bill requires that the constitution shall be taught in all the schools.

Four "better marriage" bills have been introduced in this legislature, receiving the support of the women. The chief points embodied in these laws are: Raising the age of consent, giving a 10-day public notice before issuing the license; abolishing common law marriage; and requiring a physician's certificate of health for both contracting parties.

Enforcement of liquor laws has not escaped their attention, and they have chosen to support several bills which spell fear even to the milk man, the grape juice addict, or enforcement officials whose specialty is amnesia or near sightedness.

One of these bills provides that if any person under surveillance and suspicion of violating the liquor laws shall pour out, destroy, break or throw out of any jug, bottle, or container it shall be prima facie evidence of his guilt and the burden of proof shall be upon him to show that it is not moonshine. Another bill gives the governor power to suspend any officer against whom charges have been filed for failure to enforce the law, and to appoint a special attorney to prosecute the case.

Many other bills have been introduced which embody principles endorsed by the various women's organizations such as civil service bills, request for a constitutional amendment requiring referendum vote before declaration of war, a moving picture censorship bill, reform of the party circle from the ballot, child welfare laws, and creating city boards of public welfare for the supervision and regulation of theatres and dance halls, is receiving the strong support of club women.

THE SHIP

The sea is calm as if asleep.
No wind in sail or shroud.
It is a blue and soundless deep
It has no voice aloud.
But peaceful tides roll in and bring
A sound like far off whispering.

And here a ship come home from sea
Rests motionless and still;
Rests as a phantom ship might be,
No breath or pulse or will
Rests as if it were gone asleep,
Its anchor in the silent deep.

Through many a surf and storm and gale
That ship has driven far,
And it has spread its snowy sail
Across the reef and bar,
But now its reefs and storms are past,
Inside the harbor at the last.

And to the sea or earth or air
Or to the fire and flame
The hulk and sail and shroud we bear,
And they go whence they came,
To mingle with the tides that be,
That roll and roll eternally.

SILK EXPOSITION AS VIEWED BY MRS. PENDROY

Mrs. Earl Pendroy reports that one of the interesting experiences of her stay in New York city, from which she has just returned, was attendance on the silk exposition held in Grand Central Palace, where a most beautiful display of beautiful silk was on exhibit. It seemed as if neither money nor time had been stinted in making it complete. She also had the pleasure of viewing the whole process of silk-making from cocoon to the weaving into lovely fabrics, together with an account of the history of the development of the art from its beginning among the Chinese 2460 B. C. or almost 3200 years before its nature was understood in Europe. The exhibition of the process made clear the difference between reeling and spinning, the reeling being simply the unwinding of the fine filaments the worm had spun while the spinning prepares the silk for the weavers, a work which must be done with extreme care to insure a thread

The United States could not be taken into consideration owing to the fact that she has not officially adhered to the International Labor Bureau.

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., March 1. (A. P.).—William K. Vanderbilt, who died in France, July 22, 1920, left a net estate of $50,220,842.23, upon which the state of New York will collect an inheritance tax of $1,934,571, according to a decree entered in surrogate court of Suffolk county. The total estate consisted of $54,530,966.59, of which only $4,007,477, was listed as real estate, it was said today.

which will make a smooth cloth. Not the least interesting feature was the machinery invented to do the tedious work formerly accomplished by hand. It was made clear that but for this machinery it would not be possible to manufacture enough silk to supply the great demand.

FINAL DAY FOR INCOME TAX IS NEARLY HERE

The final date for filing of individual income tax returns, March 15, is approaching rapidly, and the halls of the Federal building are crowded with taxpayers who are receiving assistance by deputy collectors.

Approximately only 11,000 returns were filed during the week beginning February 26, and at this rate it is expected there will be a serious jam as the final filing date draws near. Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell is urging taxpayers to file their returns at the earliest possible date, in order that the department may be able to give the best service.

To relieve the congestion at the Federal building, branch offices have been opened at the Union Bank and Trust Co., Eighth and Hill streets, at Chamber of Commerce, 130 South Broadway, and at Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, Hollywood.

It has been necessary to turn back to the taxpayers a large number of returns which have been filed without signature, or because they have not been sworn to before a deputy collector or notary public and the questions answered at the bottom of page 2 of the return. Taxpayers are warned that returns filed with such omissions and necessitating the correction of those items may render the return incomplete and the taxpayer liable for the penalty for delinquency.

To avoid penalties, returns must be in the office of the collector not later than midnight of March 15, and it is hoped that this district will make a record in the small number of delinquent taxpayers, and will go over the top in the amount of taxes collected.

BRAZIL DRAWS NO COLOR LINE

By MILES W. VAUGHN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

RIO DE JANEIRO (By mail).—The effect of cough syrup is the same, whether administered by a white nurse or a black one, the minister of justice decided in passing on the legality of actions of the inspector of tuberculosis in dismissing negro nurses in favor of white women.

In Brazil, the minister declared, all colors are equal in the eyes of the law and there is no sound scientific reason why a negro woman should not make just as capable a nurse for tubercular patients as her paler sisters.

"The inspector, Dr. Placido Barbosa, has been endeavoring to implant a lot of the picturesque ideas he gained in the United States," Gazetta de Noticias declares.
